

Inform

Financial knowledge for intelligent decision-making

The critical success factor behind managing any finance operation is managing the flow of information to the people who need it. Different personnel need to have the right knowledge at the right time, without having to access complex systems or endure lengthy procedures..

bluQube has been designed to make it easier to keep everyone informed, from the finance professional through to individual budget holder or senior manager. With many finance systems it is often difficult to extract regular, meaningful information, but bluQube is different.

With a wide choice of reporting tools, bluQube enables the finance professional to automatically prepare customised reports for different recipients, whether they need in-depth or more top-level reporting. In turn, these reports can be automatically distributed via e-mail or the web, in a choice of formats including HTML, PDF and Excel spreadsheet.

In addition, bluQube's Activity Costing functionality draws on available financial data across the organisation to provide meaningful business intelligence (BI) to show how different parts or divisions within an organisation are performing, or indeed whether resources are being used efficiently.

Unlike some other BI products on the market, Activity Costing is easy to operate, yet delivers a sufficient depth of information necessary for most businesses.

Inform

Key Benefits

Automation

Automatically generate and deliver your reports, day or night.

Ease of access

Everything is available at your desktop, so there is no need for extensive support or training.

Flexibility

Brand and deliver your reports as PDF, Excel, or HTML - to anywhere in the world.

Control

Upload information from any application straight into your core accounting system without re-keying data.

Ease of use

Choose from ready made standard reports or reports customised to a specific business application.

bluQube puts you back in the driving seat, giving you the knowledge and independence to run your finance operation in the most efficient manner. bluQube works with your individual data and reporting structures, so that you are not restricted by fixed format reporting. The user interface is simple to use and gives you 'ready made' templates to get you started, allowing you to tailor solutions to meet your corporate needs.

bluQube – be better informed.