

Reports Express

Make better use of your resources.

Reports Express allows users to write and send reports written in the flexible reporting tool, Reporter, automatically. This enables users to run reports any time of day or night.

What's more, they can schedule multiple reports to multiple recipients, where previously reports would have been written and sent manually.

Key Features include:

- Automatic report delivery, scheduled to run any time, day or night.
- Single or multiple report generation to multiple recipients.
- Define locations such as Intranet pages for automatic update.
- Faster and more accurate financial information for better, quicker decision making.
- Send reports in multiple formats to meet recipients' needs.
- Ability to brand screens with your company logo for a more professional image.
- Ability to set recurring tasks - for example, automating monthly report generation and dispersion. The user only needs to do this once and Reports Express does the rest.

Reports Express has been specifically designed to help staff save time and organisations make better use of resources through improved use of financial data.

It also improves the flow of information throughout an organisation.

Even staff with little or no technical training can schedule reports in a variety of formats including HTML, Excel, Word, Text and Acrobat PDF – then get Reports Express to post them on an intranet or email them directly to recipients.

Summary of Key Benefits

- More productive use of time – The finance team at Brunel University, reduced the monthly reporter task from fifteen man days to one day.
- More accurate information, faster, means better management performance when making financial decisions.
- Save time and money in administering and delivering large monthly print runs.
- Present a more professional image and configure on-screen reports with your logo and branding.
- Wide range of formats ensures users don't need special tools or software to view reports.
- Send reports automatically to recipients, wherever they are in the world.
